

Lo, as the Potter molds his Clay

Rabbi Meir ben Baruch of Rothenburg (c. 1215-1293)
tr. Elsie Davis (fl. 1900)

Ki hinne kahomer
Traditional Jewish Melody

1

1. Lo, as the pot - ter molds his clay, Shap - ing and form - ing it from day to day,
2. E'en as the ma - son hews the stone, And one is carved and wrought, and shat - tered one,
3. Lo, as a - mid the fi - ery glow The smith his ir - on for - ges, blow by blow,
4. Lo, as the sil - ver, seven times tried Is in the smel - ter's fur - nace pu - ri - fied,

5

1. Thus in thy hand, O Lord, are we, O thou whose mer - cies ne - ver pass a - way.
2. Thus in thy hand, O Lord, are we, O thou who of life and death art Lord a - lone.
3. Thus in thy hand, O Lord, are we, O thou who sa - vest those by care laid low.
4. Thus in thy hand, O Lord, are we, O thou, who balm and heal - ing scatter - est wide.