2. They tossed it up, they tossed it up so high, They
3. Then up steps one of the mer-chant's daugh-ters, A -
4. "O no, no, no, my pre - ty pret - ty maid, My
5. They showed him a che - ry as red as blood, They

1. rained and snowed both hard; Two lit - tle boys went out
2. tossed it down so low, They tossed is over in the
3. clo - thed all in green, Said you come here my
4. play - mate is no well." They showed him an ap - ple
5. gave him su - gar sweet, They lay - ed him on some

1. one day oh, For to play with their ball.
 2. mer - chant's garden, Where in fell down be - low.
 3. fair pret-ty boy, And you shall have your ball."
 4. as green as grass, And 'ticed him in at last.
 5. dres - ser drawer, And stabbed him like a sheep.

6. O please to put a Bible at my head,
 A Test'ment at my feet,
 If my poor mother was to pass by me,
 Oh, pray tell her I'm asleep.
