

It is the day, the holy day

Words Anonymous

Charles T. Howell, 1876

1

1. It is the day, the ho - ly day, On which our Lord was
2. 'Twas in an hum - ble man - ger, A lit - tle low - ly
3. He came to save the per - ish - ing, To waft the sighs to
4. As flow - ers still bloom fair a - gain Though all their life seems

4

1. born; Sweet bells and voi - ces loud and clear, Are heard this hap - py
2. shed, With cat - tle at his in - fant feet, And shep - herds at his
3. heaven Of guil - ty men who tru - ly sough To weep, to be for -
4. shed, Thus we shall rise with life once more, Though num - bered with the

8

1. morn. The Lord has come, good - will to men! The shin - ing an - gels
2. head; The Sa - viour of this sin - ful world, In in - no - cence first
3. given; An In - ter - cess - or still he shines, And men to him should
4. dead. Then may our sta - tions be near him, To whom we wor - ship

1. say; And song and hearts of glad - ness, Be - gin this ho - ly day.
2. lay; While wise men made their of - fer - ings To him this ho - ly day.
3. pray, At his al - tar's feet, for meek-ness, Up - on this ho - ly day.
4. pay, And praise, with heart-felt gra - ti - tude, Up - on this ho - ly day.

